but he also tops my list of most exciting people to know. His enthusiasm and positive outlook are so infectious." And he adores her "compassion and warmth."

It's a synchronicity that was clear from their very first encounter at a New York bar in August 2000. She was there to catch a band she'd heard briefly the week before. None of her friends would go back with her, so she went alone and found herself a spot at the bar. Jake came up and asked if the seat next to her was taken. "I said no and he said, 'Well it is now.' It certainly was!" she says, laughing.

"I was impressed," says Jake. "Here was a single woman in New York who would go out by herself to see a band, without knowing the band." Needless to say, he's now managing the band.
